

Georgia Times Union

April 8, 2008

Kesler appointed VP of Horatio Alger group

A Jacksonville native has been appointed as vice president of the Horatio Alger Executive Committee.

Delores Kesler, chairman and CEO of Adium LLC, took on the role Friday, according to information put out by the Horatio Alger Association of Distinguished Americans.

Kesler

The Virginia-based nonprofit assists and honors people rising from adversity to become successful.

The association, named for Horatio Alger Jr., an author known for rags-to-riches stories, was created in 1947. Some of the well-known members include Oprah Winfrey, Lou Dobbs, Maya Angelou and Hank Aaron.

David Hunt/
The Times-Union